LEONI's main market is the automotive industry where we focus on two complementary product technology areas. We are a leading systems supplier of electrical and electronic distribution systems, including wiring harnesses and, in addition, we develop and manufacture a full range of standardised and specialist cables for automotive applications.

Our offering includes:

- Global footprint and customer support capability
- Highest levels of product quality
- Innovative product development
- Low cost manufacturing base with optimised production processes
- Customised logistics solutions
